3. CRITERIA FOR DAN GRADING EXAMINATION

Panel members delegated by the Kendo Board to assess grading candidates at AKR Dan Grading Examinations must assess the candidates in accordance with the following documents:

- Australian Kendo Renmei, Manual of Documents, Section Two, Australian Kendo Board; and
- Australian Kendo Renmei, Standard Rules for Dan and Kyu Examinations (Manual of Documents, Section 1, Clause 1.5.3.).

Note that AKR Grading Rules require that “All examination elements must be assessed at each examination session. No element may be deferred, so as to be re-examined separately, or at another time.”

4. REGISTRATION

The following rules are applied to grading registrations:

- On arrival, candidates must register their presence at the reception by the designated cut-off time. At the same time, these candidates must submit written examination papers at the registration. An assessment label will be affixed to each submitted paper. Late arrival of candidates may result in cancellation.
- Registered candidates must be issued one single prepared stick-on label which shows their registration numbers. The label issued must be presented on the tare front.
- The Administrator must report any non-arrival of candidates to the Grading Manager immediately after registration closes. The Grading Manager must determine if the jitsugi order needs to be adjusted.
- The grading session may commence with a short opening session and, if needed, a briefing on the rotation procedure. The candidates should refer to the synopsis of grading examinations.
- AKR does not provide candidates with any equipment. Registered candidates must be responsible for their own equipment.
- Registered candidates wait for further instructions in a designated waiting area.
- Registered candidates having medical or physical issues shall contact dojo stewards⁴ during the registration. Those having difficulty in conducting a sonkyo are not required to report to the stewards. They can kneel down with either knee. If this is still difficult, candidates can simply bend the knees to the extent practicable.

At the venue of examination, registered candidates must refrain from any verbal or non-verbal contact with grading examiners during the entire period of the examination day. These candidates must also follow instructions by the Kendo Board. Non-compliance with these instructions may result in removal from the grading by the Kendo Board. The candidates failing to comply with the requirement may be disqualified from being graded for a period of time in Australia and overseas. Requalification for grading is conditional and subject to the discretion of the Kendo Board.

⁴ Dojo stewards may need to demonstrate the rotation pattern and assist the earliest group of candidates. Some candidates may be unaware of this system of rotation. The demonstration serves as a guide to those who follow.

5. CANDIDATE NUMBERING SYSTEM

A candidate numbering system is described as follows:

- The first number is the level to be examined.
- The second is the group that each candidate is assigned to. This may also be the court number if there is more than one jitsugi court.
- The last is a letter which denotes the jitsugi order for the candidate.

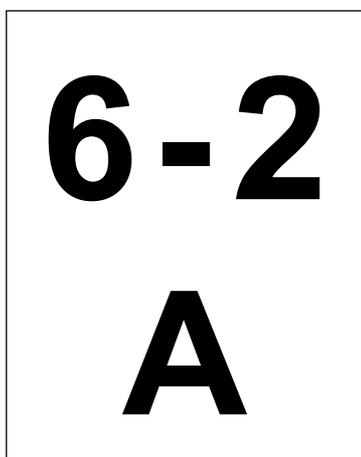

Table 2 provides an explanation of the numbering system in a tabulated form.

6. JITSUGI

6.1. General

- For AKR Jitsugi examinations, a jitsugi order list shall be displayed behind the examination panel table.
- Candidates should refer to their court entry side to the letter on their label.
- Jitsugi examinations are to be conducted in accordance with the following documents:
 - Australian Kendo Renmei Manual of Documents, Section Two, Australian Kendo Board; and
 - Australian Kendo Renmei, Standard Rules for Dan and Kyu Examinations (Manual of Documents, Section 1, Clause 1.5.3.).
- The Administrator must prepare a sufficient number of jitsugi assessment sheets for each examination in advance. The sheets should have space for examiners to add the candidate number, or be prepared in advance.

6.2. Flow of Candidates

The jitsugi examination will be undertaken on a group basis. In general, each group comprises four candidates (A, B, C and D) in general. In some instances, a group of three candidates (A, B and C) may be required. The Administrator presents the jitsugi order behind the panel table (Appendices 2 and 3). Figures 2 to 5 show a typical court setting (subject to local conditions).

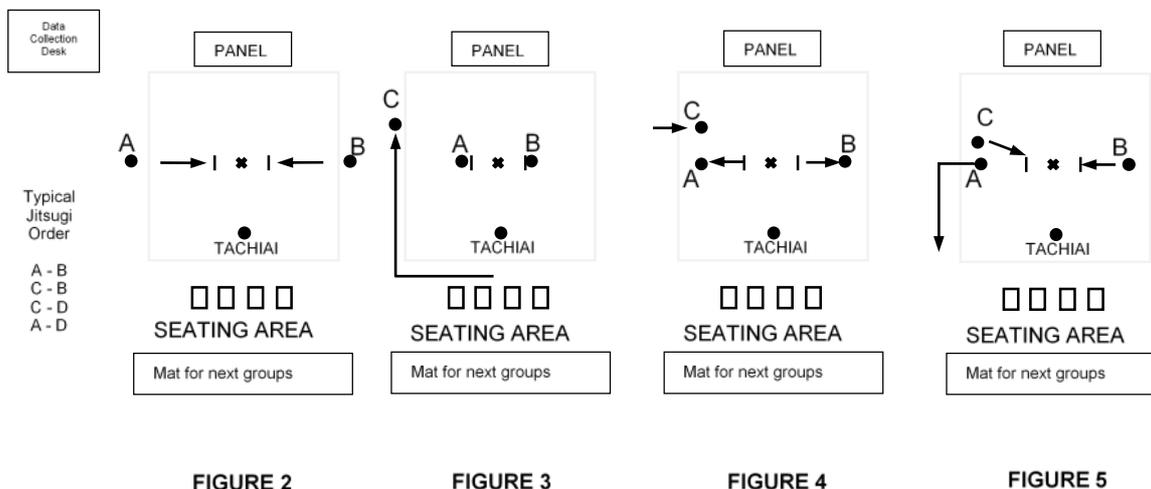

The flow of candidates during the jitsugi is as follows:

1. The first group wait on designated seats in the seating area, facing the examination court. The seat direction is directly opposite to the examination panel table. The next group is waiting in the seating area. Subsequent groups are standing by behind in a designated waiting area.
2. A tachiai enters the court from the centre of the seating area side. The tachiai then faces the panel table and remain standing approximately 1 m inwards from the court boundary. The tachiai monitors the jitsugi for 60 seconds, starting from Ritsurei using a stopwatch or equivalent in hand, and ensures that the jitsugi is undertaken smoothly and safely. The tachiai pays attention to candidates' acts such as jyogai, prohibited or unfair action.
3. Candidates A and B move to the designated standing position outside the court and wait for instructions.
4. The standing candidates enter the court from the side (Figure 2). Each candidate performs the jitsugi twice.
5. Each jitsugi is undertaken as per the tachiai's instructions. The tachiai provides the following vocal and physical commands:
 - a. 'Hajime' to commence or resume (no hand signal);
 - b. 'Yame' to stop or suspend (raise the right arm straight up); and
 - c. 'Soremade' to end the jitsugi (extend the right arm straight forward).
6. It is not necessary to bow to the panel.
7. When Candidates A and B are about to conduct a sonkyo after finishing the jitsugi, Candidate C proceeds to Candidate A's standing position on the examiners' side outside the court (Figure 3). Candidate C enters the court and approach the standing bow position as Candidate A moves back to the position (Figure 4). Candidate A and Candidate C bow to Candidate B simultaneously. Candidates B and C then approach the kaishisen as Candidate A exit the court (Figure 5).

Standard Procedural Guidelines Dan Grading Examinations

Candidate C is permitted to approach to the kaishisen slightly diagonally and take additional steps if necessary.

8. Subsequent Candidates follow the steps mentioned above.
9. After the second jitsugi, candidates exit the court. There is no need for retired candidates to return to, or occupy the seats provided for waiting candidates
10. All candidates remain in the grading venue after they complete the jitsugi examination.

7. NIPPON KENDO KATA

- Nippon (or Nihon) Kendo Kata examinations (hereafter referred to as the kata examinations) are to be conducted in accordance with the following documents:
 - Australian Kendo Renmei Manual of Documents, Section Two, Australian Kendo Board; and
 - Australian Kendo Renmei, Standard Rules for Dan and Kyu Examinations (Manual of Documents, Section 1, Clause 1.5.3).
- Candidates who have succeeded in the jitsugi examination perform a kata examination immediately after results for jitsugi examinations are announced.
- Candidates for kata examinations are escorted to designated positions by a dojo steward.
- A candidate forms a pair with another candidate (or with a dummy candidate if the number of candidates is odd).
- The kata examination is undertaken on a group basis. In principle up to four pairs will be examined simultaneously.
- Each candidate performs either Uchitachi or Shitachi as per instructions by a tachiiai. Kata pairs follow the tachiiai's instruction⁵. When all pairs have completed the required stages, they will be escorted by the steward to a designated waiting area.

⁵ The tachiiai provides verbal instruction at the beginning of each stage of the kata examination.

8. WRITTEN EXAMINATION

- The Kendo Board shall prepare examination questions. The Kendo Board shall inform candidates of these questions using appropriate electronic media (e.g. an AKC website) at least 1 month before the examination day.
- Registered candidates submit written examination papers at the reception when being registered. The Administrator or a delegated AKC official affixes a self-adhesive assessment label on the back of each paper for assessment. A typical label is presented in Figure 6. The Administrator retains the registered papers until results for kata examinations are announced.

- As soon as kata results are announced, the Administrator provides grading panel members with relevant written examination papers.
- Grading panel members commence an assessment of written examination papers. Each paper must be assessed by a minimum of two grading panel members and a final assessment must be completed by these members upon agreement (Figure 6).

9. CERTIFICATES

The President of the Australian Kendo Renmei or an authorised AKR official presents grading certificates to those who have completed all the grading requirements at the closing of the grading.

If certificates are pre-printed for all candidates, those for unsuccessful candidates must be given to the Grading Manager. The Manager must destroy the certificates completely and ensure that no part of the certificates is received by unsuccessful candidates.

10. INFORMATION DISCLOSURE

Unsuccessful candidates who wish to receive an assessment result may contact the Grading Manager after all grading examination requirements are completed.

The Manager must advise those candidates of one of the below responses by email in due course:

- A: Almost successful (Score: 3 of 6);
- B: Additional efforts are required (Score: 2 of 6); or
- C: Significant efforts are required (Score: 0 or 1 of 6).

Note: This situation applies for a panel of 6 as a guideline.

11. MANAGEMENT OF ASSESSMENT RESULT

After all grading examination requirements are completed, the Grading Manager collects all results together with all associated documents and ensures such documents are stored in adequately secure place. Under no circumstances, these documents should be accessed by anyone other than the members of Kendo Board, members of Executive Committee and Grading Administrator.

12. FURTHER COMMUNICATION

The Kendo Board trusts that this guideline provides sufficient detail for general requirements specific to AKR Dan Examinations.

Please contact the Kendo Board Chairperson should there be any questions.

13. DISCLAIMER

The Kendo Board has prepared this guideline specifically for the purpose of managing AKR Dan Examinations in good faith, exercising all due care and attention. For other purposes, users of this guideline should satisfy themselves by assessing its application to their purposes and uses.
